The Professional Gardeners' Guild SPECIALIST GARDENS SEMINAR

INNOVATION OR RESTORATION, THE HISTORIC HOUSE GARDEN DILEMMA

The seminar will examine the choices available when the historic garden is in need of a major overhaul.

For example, should the owner consider a complete new design or develop the existing historical layout according to the original plans?

Speakers include John Watkins, Head of Gardens for English Heritage, who will put the case for recreating and developing the historic layout and Trevor Nicholson, Head Gardener at Harewood House, who will discuss the implications and management of changes in garden design. Stephen Anderton, author and journalist and Lord Cavendish, owner of Holker Hall will discuss design and financial considerations.

Attending this optional seminar costs £60 (£50 + VAT) and the price includes an £8.50 lunch voucher plus tea and coffee vouchers.

The seminar is being held at The Historic Buildings, Parks and Gardens Event 2011 on 15 November. Seminar attendees can also visit the all-day exhibition area of the event free of charge and subject to seating listen to the HHA's afternoon guest speaker The Marquess of Douro.
