THE CONFERENCE

This year's Annual School will explore how we protect what matters most about our historic environment while responding meaningfully to the impacts of climate change. The programme will focus on key topics around understanding heritage significance, and assessing the impact and potential harm of change, including retrofit and other climate-related interventions. Bringing together conservation professionals and practitioners from across the built environment sectors, the School offers practical guidance and honest debate on one of the defining challenges facing the sector.

WHO IS ATTENDING

The IHBC is the professional body for building conservation practitioners and historic environment experts working in the UK and beyond. The Institute exists to establish, develop and maintain the highest standards of conservation practice, to support the effective protection and enhancement of the historic environment, and to promote heritage-led regeneration and access to the historic environment for all.

Members work across private practices and within UK conservation organisations, as well as local authorities and other publicly funded bodies like English Heritage. The Delegates for this conference have a wide variety of backgrounds which will include surveyors, planners, architects, conservation officers, urban designers, structural engineers, heritage managers, archaeologists, project managers, construction and engineering professionals, policy makers, specifiers, innovators, landscapers and historians to name but a few. All of whom are involved in the care and conservation of the historic environment.

The Annual School will be hosted in partnership with IHBC South West Branch and will attract delegates from right across the UK. It will also appeal greatly to those in the Bristol catchment area. We expect well over 200 delegates all of whom will have a significant influence on the use and choice of materials and services in both the public and private sectors.

The School welcomes people working in national and local government and related bodies, private practice, education, academia, charities and other voluntary bodies.

THE OPPORTUNITY

This conference will be of particular interest to companies/professionals who would like to promote to and create closer relationships with our highly influential delegates.

THE EXHIBITION

Exhibitors will be reserving floor space only and must bring their own free-standing display panels. Tables can be provided as is access to a power socket if required. We only have 18 exhibitor spaces available so booking early is advisable.

The excellent location of the exhibition stands in the Stalls Bar alongside the catering and breakout spaces, together with three refreshment breaks will provide good exposure of your display.

THE VENUE

Bristol Beacon's Lantern Hall is a historic, vibrant performance and event space located inside the Grade II listed Bristol Beacon music venue, offering an impressive blend of Victorian architecture and modern facilities.
